The Times' Daily Short Story.

A Debtor's Maneuvers

(Original.)

When I left West Point I had a debt for every friend and a friend for every debt. I was ordered to St. Louis on recruiting service, where friends and debts increased in arithmetical progression. I was so well treated by the former that I found life well worth living—that is, a short life, for my debts were continually growing till I found it inconvenient to live any longer, at least in St. Louis, and I applied for orders to the frontier. I left my pleasant surroundings regretted both by my friends and creditors, though for different causes.

The Indians were giving us more or less trouble in those days, though not in open rebellion, and most of the men of my post were off at one place or another endeavoring to keep the peace by their presence. One day a legal looking individual came to the post and asked for me. He made his inquiries of one of my brother officers, who, knowing of my embarrassments, sent him to the quarters of the major commanding, then came to mine and warned me to look out for danger. The major sent me an order to join my troop, from which I was, like Sheridan at Cedar Creek, twenty miles away.

Well, before the man—Mr. Delaney he called himself—could get at me I was mounted on a fleet horse and showing heels for the front. After I had gone Delaney was informed that I had just started to join my troop and it was very unfortunate that he had not arrived a little sooner. When I joined, my captain gave me a sergeant and ten men and sent me back to guard a ranch, the owner of which had sent to him for protection.

We had gone back five or six miles when suddenly a party of Indians came up over a rise on the ground not a hundred yards in advance of us. What especially arrested our attention was the figure of a white man riding between the two foremost files. The Indians turned tall. We gave chase and were not long in overtaking them.

I questioned the white man, and he told me that he was riding to join the troops I had just left when the Indians swooped down upon him and took him prisoner. I asked him who he was and what he was doing out there, and he said his name was Delaney and he was looking for Lieutenant Barlett Luce (myself). I turned away and affected to busy myself with the men and the captured Indians. I determined not to give him a chance to serve his papers on me and kept out of his way. I had no use for the Indians who had captured him and turned them loose. Delaney came to me and told me he was very important that he see Lieutenant Luce at once, so he must rest on to the troop, whereupon to show my good will I sent a couple of men with him that he might have no further trouble. I also sent a note to the captain explaining the circumstances and suggesting that he send the man back to me, giving me some order in advance that would enable me to get away before he arrived.

The next morning before breakfast a messenger came from the captain ordering me to report to the major commanding at the post, and before sunrise I was speeding along, getting in time for a late breakfast at the major's mess. I gave an account amid roars of laughter of the hairbreadth escape I had made. After a hasty meal I reported to the major, who, though he outwardly did not make light of the matter, set about devising a new plan to get me out of the way before the arrival of my man. He ordered me to another detachment, but told me to wait awhile, since he desired me to take some written instructions which he would prepare.

It was two hours before the orderly came for me, and I went to headquarters. The major was just delivering the dispatch to me when the door opened, and in walked Delaney.

"This gentleman," said the major, "can take any message you have for Lieutenant Luce. He is going where the lieutenant is to be on duty."

"Well," said poor Delaney, sinking into a chair, "he'll have to take the message, for I'm worn out. I've been chasing Mr. Luce from pillar to post and been captured by Indians. Tell him that I had a letter for him from my aunt, who is expected to live but a short time, but the Indians lit their pipes with it. I was only partially informed of its contents, but I was given to understand that his aunt would leave him her property on certain conditions, but what the conditions are I don't know. It has taken so long that she may be dead by this time, and without her reply the property was to go to her adopted daughter."

"Major," I said, drawing my saber and handing him the bill, "will you oblige me by turning fool killer and cleaving my skull?"

Well, to make a short story of it, I got a leave and left at once for the east. On reaching the Mississippi river I took up a paper and saw a notice of my aunt's death. Her fortune was estimated at $400,000, all of which, it was understood, would go to her adopted daughter. I concluded to go on to the funeral, as I wanted to learn more of the affair. I found the adopted daughter ready to welcome me, but she blushed when I asked her for what I had been wanted. I learned afterward that my aunt wished to leave the property to me provided I would marry the adopted daughter.

However, I was as well off in the end, for I fulfilled my condition. The first thing I did after my marriage was to pay my debts.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Maud Granger will play Mrs. Lincoln in Benjamin Chapin's character drama, "Lincoln," which will be presented for the first time in Parsons' theater, Hartford, Conn.

Members of the chorus of "His Majesty," a comic opera soon to have a New York hearing, received $1 a day for rehearsal. Nelson Robertson is the first New York manager to take this step.

Henry B. Harris has purchased an option on the rights of a new play Charles Klein is writing. The author has selected as his theme an issue in American affairs today just as vital as that illustrated in "The Lion and the Mouse."

The will of Sir Henry Irving was probated recently. It divides his property equally between his two sons and Mrs. David R. Arlt, a woman journalist who has made dress a specialty and who has written on this topic in American and English papers.

CALL MITCHELL TO PITTBURG

Miners Want Him to Take Charge of Dolan Fight.

LATTER REFUSED TO BUDGE

Meeting of Scale Committee May Have to Wait for the End of the Row in the Convention at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 8.—All the forces of the coal miners' national organization are to be enlisted to crush Patrick Dolan, president of this district, who refuses to join in the demand for a general strike. An effort will be made to have John Mitchell, the national president, stop here on his way East, and take charge of the fight against Dolan. Mitchell, having wound up the national convention at Indianapolis, is due in Wilkesbarre today for a meeting of the scale committee of the three anthracite districts to formulate the demands of the anthracite miners for presentation to the operators at a joint conference in New York a week later. The enemies of Dolan in the district convention, in session here, think that they have more need of Mitchell's presence just now than the anthracite miners have.

Dolan snaps his fingers at the resolution passed in the district convention Tuesday calling on him to resign as the president of district No. 5. Both he and Uriah Bellingham, vice president of the district, whose resignation was also demanded, say that the delegates had no right to adopt such a resolution. Bellingham, like Dolan, believes that a strike would not only be a national calamity, but would result in defeat for the union, and damage it so that it would take many years to recover. He says the fight against him is being engineered by Mitchell, who has got himself into a hole and is unable to see his way out.

MINERS PREPARING DEMANDS.

Grievances of Every District to Be Presented to Scale Committee.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 8.—The district boards of the union anthracite mine workers are meeting to prepare the demands of each district for presentation to the scale committee, which will meet here today. This committee will decide which of these demands are to be added to the general demands to be presented to the operators at the joint conference on Feb. 15 in New York City.

It is a foregone conclusion that the leading demands will be for recognition of the union and an eight-hour day, and it is also certain, local mining officials say, that the companies will refuse to grant these. The operators are prepared, it is understood, to offer to renew the agreement and to revise the cumbersome conciliation board, but further than that they will not go.

TO ABSORB CALIFORNIA ROADS.

Plans for a New System Along the Coast Into Oregon.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 8.—E. H. Harriman, A. W. Foster and F. P. Ripley, have, it is said, agreed upon a general plan for railroad extension into the Northern territory. A new company is being organized, according to reports, which is to take over Ripley's San Francisco and Northwestern line, with its valuable Eureka terminals; to take over Harriman and Foster's California Northwestern line between Willits and Tiburon and this city, and probably the North Shore or Sausalito road, and to build the 100-mile gap north of Willits to the southern end of Ripley's San Francisco and Northwestern road, thirty-one miles south of Eureka.

The proposed new company will then, it is said, form the nucleus of a Northwestern California system, which will eventually go up along the coast into Oregon and finally reach Portland, thus forming two trunk lines between Los Angeles and Portland, with San Francisco as their great central point.

THE ART OF WAR.

Nearly 4,000 men are employed in the manufacture of Uncle Sam's half twelve inch guns. These war machines have a maximum limit of about 300 firings. Germany's cavalry, following the example of the Russians, carries Swedish camp kettles covered with a nonconductive substance, so that the heat generated by a fire continued for twenty minutes is sufficient to do the cooking.

Russian soldiers still believe themselves superior to the Japanese and ascribe their ill luck in Manchuria to the fact that their army was so largely composed of reservists, whose officers were incompetent and inefficient in number.

The French navy uses fifty or sixty different models of guns, which makes the question of furnishing projectiles very difficult, and the powder used in the navy is so unstable that one-quarter of it has to be changed every year. It lasts on board ship only five years and in hot climates only two years.

The Manure Spreader.

The manure spreader affords the very best method of applying manure. By using the spreader the farmer can spread manure quickly, evenly and surely. The manure will be broken up and turned over by the wheels, thus facilitating the thorough mixing of the manure with the soil and an even growth of subsequent crops.—J. J. Hooper.

Most copying inks are ferrous in their nature and are adapted for use by being highly gummed and having also a portion of sugar in their composition.

A Wonderful Record.

As made up by improved and exact processes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting disordered menstruation, alleviating all the troubles incident to the period, soothing the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. It cures the headache, periodical headaches, the dragging-down distress in the pelvic region, the pain and tenderness over lower abdominal region, dries up the pelvic catarrhal drain, so disagreeable and weakening, and overcomes every form of weakness incident to the organs distinctly feminine.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, the makers of which are not afraid to print their formula on the bottle wrapper, thus taking their patrons into their full confidence. It is the only medicine for women, every ingredient of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the most eminent medical practitioners and druggists of our day. It is the only medicine for which "Favorite Prescription" is used. It is the only put-up medicine for women, sold through druggists, which does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, so harmful in the long run, especially to delicate women. It has more genuine cures for women than all other medicines for women combined, having saved thousands of sufferers from the operating table and the surgeon's knife. It has restored delicate, nervous women to strength and vigor, health and vitality, making motherhood possible where there was barrenness before, thereby brightening and making happy many thousands of homes by the advent of little ones to strengthen the marital bonds and add sunshine where gloom and despondency had reigned before.

Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce. He will send you good, fatherly, professional advice, in a plain, sealed envelope, absolutely free of charge. Do not know anything about the milk we have left at our homes, or the conditions under which it is produced," he added. "There are a thousand and one possibilities which might have combined to make what nature intended for a food the most virile poison that chemistry can produce. I have found that the foods we daily consume are so fraught with germ life of a harmful nature that I am almost afraid to go to the table. The butter is tainted; there is little other to be found anywhere. Canned goods are kept years and sold for the garbage of the world. The milk is adulterated. I speak particularly of condensed milk. We know nothing of the fresh milk we get, surely our knowledge is more limited to the product that is put in cans. The Lord intended us to resort to cans only to tide us over one season, until green fruits could be had again; but the canners don't know this. There is no law requiring them to stamp the date upon their goods; if they did, it would kill the sale."

LA MODE'S FOIBLES.

White Suede and Linen Pocketbooks and Cardcases a Summer Fancy.

For carrying with white cloth or linen costumes there are little pocketbooks and cardcases of white suede decorated with tiny gilt beads. The clasps and corners are of French gilt. Embroidered linen cardcases are also very smart for summer use. Advanced showings of fine white figured laces are seen in the shops. The grounds are mostly white, and the design is generally in pink, blue, lavender, yellow or green. These laces are deliciously dainty and only cost 15 cents a yard.

Gold valencienes lace is an exquisite novelty. Both edging and insertion are woven of the gold thread. On a severe tailor gown used as inserted bands and narrow ruffles for the collar this innovation is stunning.

A new way of getting a touch of gold and at the same time half concealing it is by the use of powdered gold tissue—beautiful wide ribbon of gold, with

SPOTTED WHITE NET GOWN.

Flowers scattered all over it and so sheer that the colors and the gold melt into each other in a lovely manner.

Tailors and dressmakers are vying with each other in seeing how many buttons they can crowd into a square inch. Some of the new tailor made skirts are literally covered with buttons, numbering several hundred, each seam of the princess corsage and full skirt being outlined with a close row of tiny buttons.

The debutante's gown illustrated is of spotted white net. The full sweep length skirt is trimmed with shirred flounces of the pretty, airy material. A bertha of net shirred to fit the shoulders and crossed back and front betwixt fashion outlines the décolleté neck. The beaute waist is encircled with a deep girde of white silk with long cash ends.

DEADLY FOOD FOR INFANTS

Dr. Wiley Says Millions Are Sacrificed.

SYRUPS AND BAD MILK

Full of Dangerous Possibilities—There Is Much in Our Daily Food Which Is Harmful.

Washington, Feb. 8.—That more than a million infants had been sacrificed to the various concoctions known as soothing syrups and pain killers, and over twice that number killed by impure milk, was the declaration made Tuesday night by Professor H. W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry bureau of the department of agriculture. "We do not know anything about the milk we have left at our homes, or the conditions under which it is produced," he added. "There are a thousand and one possibilities which might have combined to make what nature intended for a food the most virile poison that chemistry can produce. I have found that the foods we daily consume are so fraught with germ life of a harmful nature that I am almost afraid to go to the table. MIXED ON DATES.

Wooster of Town Topics Takes Back Part of Testimony.

New York, Feb. 8.—M. Ellis Wooster, the "Fads and Fancies" solicitor, who testified Tuesday that he saw Col. William Mann write "O. K., W. D. M." on a letter from Count Reginald Ward was again a witness before Justice McArty when the preliminary hearing in the perjury charge against Mann was resumed yesterday. District Attorney Jerome sat beside his assistant, Mr. Hat.

The charge against the editor of Town Topics is based upon his testimony during the recent trial of Norman Hapgood, accused of criminal libel by Justice Denel. The colonel then testified that he did not write "O. K., W. D. M." on the Ward letter, which was addressed to Wooster and contained references to a block of Rice syndicate stock sent as a gift to Mann.

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the colonel, continued to cross examine Wooster, who had said Tuesday that Mann, after writing the indorsement, told him to show the letter to the subscription clerk, so that she might place Ward's name on the free list. Wooster said yesterday that he did not show the letter to the clerk, and afterward gave it to Mr. Hess.

"What was the date of your return from Europe?" the witness was asked.

"About March 1, 1903."

"Are those the shares of Rice stock you turned over to Col. Mann?"

"I think they are, but I do not recollect the numbers on the certificates."

"One of them is dated April 24, 1903, and the other May 24, 1903."

"Then how could you deliver shares of stock on your return March 1, 1903, dated in April and May?"

"I made a mistake in my testimony Tuesday, because I confounded my first and second trips abroad. I now recollect that I received the shares of Rice stock by mail on my return to this country. I was in error when I said I received the first instalment of the shares in London, and gave 5,000 of them to Col. Mann early in February, 1903, on my return."

Mr. Littleton spoke on the apparent conflict in Wooster's evidence concerning the Rice stock. During Tuesday's session Mr. Littleton had succeeded in getting Wooster to write "O. K., W. D. M." on a sheet of paper. It was reported then that the defense would accuse the solicitor of forging the indorsement, but those who saw his writing say it bears no resemblance to that on the Ward letter.

NEGOTIATIONS ADMITTED.

Actual Sale of Clyde Line, However, Is Denied.

New York, Feb. 8.—A report that the Clyde line has been sold to C. W. Morse is denied in this city, although it is admitted that negotiations are under way. It is understood that $7,000,000 is the basis of negotiations as the selling price.

Mr. Morse already controls the Metropolitan line between Boston and New York; the Eastern Steamship Company, between Boston and St. John, N. B.; and the People's line between New York and Albany. He bought the Eastern Steamship Company in 1901. By the purchase of the Clyde line, Mr. Morse would gain control of lines of steamers along the Atlantic coast from St. John, N. B., to Jacksonville, Fla. Steamers of the Clyde line run from New York and Boston to Jacksonville, via Charleston, and from New York to Wilmington and Georgetown. The Clyde line is one of the oldest and most famous of the coasting lines of this country. It includes in its fleet some fine ships, both in the passenger and freight service.

REVOKES PART OF IRELAND ACT.

Some Twenty Boroughs of Ireland Relieved by Privy Council.

Dublin, Feb. 8.—The privy council, under the presidency of the Earl of Aberdeen, lord lieutenant of Ireland, has decided to revoke all proclamations under the third and fourth clauses of the coercion act, thus relieving some twenty boroughs and counties throughout the country.

THE BOYCOTT MORE SERIOUS

Chinese Move May Include All Foreigners

SOME RECENT ACTIONS

Are Regarded as Significant—Situation Is Causing Genuine Concern—Anti-American Manifestoes Issued in Many Provinces.

London, Feb. 8.—J. C. Hoare, bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong, in an interview on the situation in China, expressed the view that the outlook was more serious in the south than at any time before the Boxer rising. "The persistent American boycott," he added, "is stirring up much trouble and there is danger that the Chinese may extend the boycotting principle, inevitably leading to a general anti-foreign feeling among the more ignorant classes. The attack on Dr. Andrew Beattie (the American Presbyterian missionary at Fati, whose residence was looted on Feb. 3) was particularly daring, as it occurred just across the river from the Canton settlement and within a few yards of European gunboats. It is also significant that such a pro-foreign official as Viceroy Yuan Shi Kai should have discharged Professor C. D. Tenney (an American and director of education, who organized the new school system in Pe Chi Li province). "The spread of the boycott will be more difficult to contend with than the Boxer movement. As the exclusion of the Chinese from the United States and the Philippine Islands caused the boycott of American goods, their exclusion from Australia and Canada will cause a feeling against Great Britain."

WANT TOO MUCH LIBERTY.

Real Cause of the Crisis in Hungary.

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 8.—The hunger for sovereign power and the attempt to restrict the constitutional rights and functions of the chief of state in such a way as "even the president of a republic would not submit to" are declared by Premier Fejervary to be the real causes of the crisis in Hungary. The coalition, he says in an interview, wishes to restrict the legal, sovereign rights of the king in regard to the control and organization of the army and make them dependent on the discretion of changing parliamentary majorities, whereas the right of Parliament is limited by law to approval or rejection of votes for army credits and the annual contingent of recruits.

DECISION AFFECTS NEWSPAPERS.

Court Rules They Cannot Be Compelled to Divulge Sources of Information.

London, Feb. 8.—The Court of Appeals rendered an interesting decision Tuesday that newspapers cannot be compelled by the courts to divulge their sources of information except under very special circumstances. The point was raised in a libel suit against a trade paper. The lower court ordered the defendants to disclose the name of the informant on whose statement the alleged libel was based. The Court of Appeal reversed the order regarding the divulging of the name of their informant, but decided that the plaintiffs had the right to ask the defendants what information they possessed inducing their belief that their alleged libellous comment was justified.

ANXIETY IN EUROPE.

Much Concern Over Outcome of the Algeciras Conference.

Berlin, Feb. 8.—While government circles maintain an outwardly hopeful attitude regarding the conference at Algeciras, the indications are that much concern is felt about the outcome. Even a failure to reach an agreement on the police question is regarded as probable. This inference is drawn from the fact that the inspired press has begun discussing the probable results of a failure to reach an agreement. These papers assert that a failure would not involve the danger of war so far as Germany is concerned, and they argue that France would never go to war on account of Morocco.

Algeciras, Spain, Feb. 8.—The delegates to the Moroccan conference yesterday discussed the customs duties of Morocco and settled a number of details referring to various articles, but postponed deciding the question of increasing the general rate to 12½ per cent ad valorem. Morocco's request to be allowed to make tobacco a state monopoly was approved. The conference then adjourned until Saturday.

ALL WILL HAVE MEDALS.

Russian Soldiers in Japanese War Will Be Decorated.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—Medals for all those who participated in the war with Japan have been ordered, according to an imperial rescript, published in the Russian invalid yesterday. Those who defended Port Arthur were singled out for special distinction. They will be given a silver medal, and light bronze medals will be bestowed on those who were engaged in battles on land or sea. The soldiers who were not under fire will receive dark bronze medals. Gossip is busy with changes at the admiralty.
